Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 20 Aug 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Heavy rain at times over the weekend, improving next week.

Today:
Starting damp in places, and while staying on the cloudy side throughout, some limited brighter intervals may develop for a time further east. Becoming overcast and breezy later, ahead of evening rain over the hills. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Tonight:
Cloudy with long periods of rain, the heaviest of which will be over the Pennines. Mild but with thick fog over the hills. Winds generally light. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Saturday:
Cloudy with fog over the hills and long periods of rain, which will turn heavy at times. Light winds. Maximum temperature 19 deg C (66 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Rather cloudy with some rain likely at first on Sunday before brightening up, though with a risk of thundery showers developing. Monday and Tuesday drier, a little brighter and warmer.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.